

December
cold comes with this moon I'll weave my winter cocoon settle in till June

November
month of remembrance
first peoples last mis-givings wars and life endings

October
think --not just pumpkins or ghosts prowling--more like wind twirling leaves up

September
ruses, golden shafts,
leaves turning color, sky blue,
air tantalizing

August
keep the long days close as the sun tilts towards less light, take breath with you

July
the sun god speaks thy name all worship thy rays from dawn to dusk we praise

June
insects birds bees play their small part in the great work of pollination

May
favorite flowers
bloom --irises peonies-- warm winds caress us

Please recycle to a friend!

ORIGAMIPOEMS.COM

~

origamipoems@gmail.com

Origami Poetry Project™

Cover: The Web

The Year in Haikus
Pat LaRose© 2014

January
of resolutions tried though swiftly broken---like branches thick with snow

February
Carolina wren
sings away my winter blues red roses help too

March
slush puddles wind snow ice green shoots green beer – lions lamb – the whole shebang

April
seedlings nestlings rust-lings beneath warming earth spring forth all promising