

The Stars At Night

I look up at the stars at night
And know that I have never been alone
And never in a crowd of souls, lost.
I am still singular in your eyes.
I am the one you have always loved,
Just like all the others.
We all look up and see
Your stars at night,
Even with Eyes Colored Closed.

One More

One more poem to fit your scheme of me
one more, and then one more again you will always want one more and I will always have one more
to give to you

Finally

The last page
Finally
Why did I ever set a goal
When what I have sought
Has always been here
Your love
Always right here Always Finally

Where is it?

Where is that wonderful feeling?
I just had it.
I couldn't have lost it already.
It must be around here somewhere...
Oh, Here it is!

Please recycle to a friend.

WWW.ORIGAMIPOEMS.COM
email us at:
origamipoems@gmail.com

Cover Photo of Kevin with mini-schnauzer, Wendy

Origami Poetry Project™

L*O*V*E
KEVIN KEOUGH © 2012

L*O*V*E

KEVIN KEOUGH

You

You were in the other room
Until I thought of you
Then you were in my heart
I think of you
And then the thinking never stops
Until I feel you in my heart
Then I smile
The breathing quiets
Then you fill my heart
With You

Thank You And I Love You

Thank you and I love you
Are the only words I need.
These million thoughts that
Used to run my brain
Aren't needed.
I am rewiring my head
To my heart.
Did I already tell you that?
Well, no matter.
All I really want to tell you is
Thank you and I Love You.